Completer Satisfaction Survey

The EPP administrated the Completer Satisfaction Survey to a total of 19 graduates from the Fall 2021 and Spring 2022. A total of 11 components were recognized as strengths, which received a score of 75% or above. These components included teaching content areas, using varied instructional approaches, adjustment to unplanned circumstances, managing classroom dynamics, planning and preparing lessons, being a reflective practitioner, working with a diverse population, collaborating with colleagues, differentiation in instruction, using technology to facilitate instruction, and the year-long residency preparation for 1st year teaching. Only two components were identified as areas of refinement, which received a score of 50% or below. These components includes working with English Language Learners and collaborating with students' families
